

Connecting Corporates & Investors on Sustainability

As businesses face an increased call for transparency at shareholder-level, Acre has seen a sharp rise in demand for sustainability professionals who can bridge the gap between corporates and investors.

Niall O'Shea; Acre Bench Consultant

Niall has 17 years' experience supporting companies to understand their material risks and integrate profitable, sustainable decision making into how they think, plan and operate.

- ✓ Interim advisory
- ✓ Short term project delivery
- ✓ Longer term opportunities

"Sustainability has never had a higher profile and the challenges have never been so daunting. That is good news, for some. The reasons to be a long-term bull about responsible investment, and the ability to monetise it, have never been more powerful."

How could engaging a specialist benefit our business?

- ✓ Draw out the most relevant aspects of your sustainability report for shareholders
- ✓ Identify and leverage the commercial risks and benefits to focus your strategy around
- ✓ Influence and inform The Board on best practice Environmental Social Governance (ESG) and Sustainability
